Introduction

Instructors and students share responsibility for the success of any college course, instructors for laying out clear expectations, and students for being aware of and responding to them. The syllabus is the primary means of presenting these expectations. A well-written syllabus is a transparent roadmap of the essential features of the how and why of a course, including assignments, assessments, and learning outcomes. A quality syllabus represents an understanding between instructor and students that makes each party accountable for carrying out specific tasks in specific ways, promoting intellectual engagement, academic integrity, and equity of access and experience. Students who are clear on course and assignment expectations experience higher academic confidence, an increased sense of belonging, and a greater awareness that they are mastering skills that are valued after graduation (Mary-Ann Winkelmes, 2016). Further, a thoughtfully designed syllabus reduces student misunderstandings, thus saving time and effort for the core task of teaching and learning. As a shorthand record of course content and activities, a syllabus also facilitates program articulation and review, including ongoing review and development of learning outcomes and course activities. Our regional accreditor also reviews syllabi to assess if reaffirmation requirements are met at an institution. For these reasons, achieving and maintaining high syllabus standards is a university priority.

In support of faculty, syllabus development resources and workshops (including sample syllabi templates) will be available through The Office of Faculty Development and colleges.

There are two main parts of this policy: (1) required elements for individual course syllabi completed by the course instructor and (2) University Resources & Information, which are common syllabus elements that the university will load into every course shell in the learning management system (LMS) each term. Whether the course is offered on-the-ground or partially or fully online, the individual and common syllabus elements are the same.

Instructors are required to post the course syllabus on the learning management system (LMS) provided by the campus at the beginning of the semester. Instructors are also required to submit the course syllabus to their department, and if requested, to their college. Department chairs are required to collect and archive all course syllabi for their department. Course syllabi must contain the following information.

PART 1: Individual Course Syllabi

Required Individual Syllabus Elements
CONTACT INFORMATION • Name of instructor • Office location (physical and/or virtual) • Office hours (physical or/or virtual) • Telephone number • @csueastbay.edu email
COMMUNICATING WITH THE INSTRUCTOR The syllabus explains the ways the instructor will have regular and substantial contact with students whether in person or online. This includes providing basic contact information (see above) as well as office hours, alternative ways to communicate with instructor (e.g., Slack), directions on how to ask questions, a description of ways instructor will be communicating with students throughout the course (e.g., announcements, group discussions) and a statement of when instructor will provide feedback or grades on student work.
COURSE INFORMATION • Course number, section, and title • Classroom location (physical and/or virtual)

- Class modality (e.g., web online asynchronous, web online synchronous, web online synch-dual teaching) and meeting time (including final exam), if applicable
- Number of units
- Prerequisites or corequisites (if applicable)
- Course description
- Student learning outcomes

Note that the course title, description, and learning outcomes must match what is in the University Catalog. If the course meets the learning outcomes for one or more breadth requirements¹, the student learning outcomes for the appropriate area(s) of breadth (including GE) must be clearly stated on the syllabus each time the course is taught. This will alert students and any new instructors that the course carries breadth credit.

COURSE MATERIALS

- Required and/or recommended texts
- Any other required and/or recommended materials
- Student-supplied equipment and materials necessary for course activities

TECHNICAL REQUIREMENTS

- Specific technical/application requirements needed for the class (e.g., Zoom)
- Technical support information (e.g., orientation, training, help with technical problems)

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

- Required assignments such as examinations, quizzes, papers, field trips, and labs
- Course outline with due dates for key assignments

COURSE POLICIES

- Assessment/grading policy, including the relative weight of examinations, quizzes, papers, class participation, and other graded components of the course, the grading scale, dates and types of assessment, how grades will be determined
- Attendance policy as applicable
- Late work/make-up work/extra credit policies and implications for assessment/grading

GENERATIVE AI USE POLICY (25-26 CIC 1)

¹ Breadth courses include all areas of general education, overlays, American institutions/code, UWSR, and second composition.

Please determine what level of AI use is appropriate for your students and include one of the following statements developed by the office of Online Campus in your syllabus or one that you have developed yourself.

1. No Generative AI use Policy

For this course, all assignments, activities and homework must be completed by the student. The use of generative AI, including ChatGPT, is expressly prohibited. Use of these tools will be considered a violation of the CSUEB Academic Dishonesty Policy and may be subject to disciplinary action.

2. Use of Generative AI is allowed in specific course instances

For this course, there may be assignments that require or encourage the use of generative AI tools. I will explicitly let you know if any of those tools are allowed on assignment(s). Students shall give credit to AI tools whenever used. Use of AI in any other context in this course will be considered a violation of the CSUEB Academic Dishonesty Policy and may be subject to disciplinary action.

3. Use of Generative AI is generally allowed in the course

Use of generative AI is generally welcomed in this course with appropriate citations. AI tools can be used to help brainstorm, edit, or even revise assignments. Assignments submitted without any citation of an AI tool will be considered your own original work. Assignments submitted that utilized AI tools should be appropriately referenced, otherwise it may be considered a violation of the CSUEB Academic Dishonesty Policy and may be subject to disciplinary action.

Instructors should note on their syllabi that unanticipated circumstances, including discovery of the need to spend more time mastering particular content, may require changes to the syllabus. In such situations, instructors should discuss the need for making such changes with students prior to making them and communicate the changes to students through the LMS provided by the campus.

Faculty also are encouraged to include additional items such as:

Land Acknowledgement (short version or long version)
Class ground rules for discussion and etiquette (created by instructor or in collaboration with students)
Policies regarding audio and video recording and use of electronic devices
Department resources (e.g. , equipment check out) and/or policies (e.g. , DEI statement)
Classroom food and drink policies
Commitment to inclusive and accessible teaching and learning
Statement on pregnancy, childbirth, and breastfeeding
East Bay Cares information
Immigration Legal Services information

PART 2: University Resources and Information

University Resources & Information are common syllabus elements that the university will load into every course shell in the learning management system (LMS) each term. Faculty are encouraged to link or refer to these elements in their individual course syllabi.

University Resources and Information
TECHNICAL REQUIREMENTS (to be determined in collaboration with Online Campus and updated each term as needed) • Minimum technical requirements for in-person, hybrid, and online classes • Technical support available (e.g., orientation, training, help with technical problems)
IMPORTANT DATES • Key university dates (e.g., add/drop, withdrawal) • University holidays and recesses
ACADEMIC INTEGRITY STATEMENT As a member of the academic community, you are expected to act with integrity and avoid plagiarism and other forms of cheating. By enrolling in this class, you agree to uphold the standards of academic integrity described at https://www.csueastbay.edu/aps/academic-policies/academic-dishonesty.html
ACCOMMODATIONS FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES For disability and other learning-related needs and accommodations, including if you would need assistance in the event of an emergency evacuation, please communicate with your instructor as soon as possible. Students with disabilities are also encouraged to contact the Accessibility Services office at https://www.csueastbay.edu/accessibility to meet with a counselor who can advise you on your options, including your rights under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act. ”
EMERGENCY STATEMENT California State University, East Bay is committed to being a safe and caring community. Your appropriate response in the event of an emergency can help save lives. Information on what to do in an emergency situation (earthquake, electrical outage, fire, extreme heat, severe storm, hazardous materials, terrorist attack) may be found at <https://www.csueastbay.edu/riskmanagement/index.html>.

Please be familiar with these procedures. Information on this page is updated as required. Please review the information on a regular basis.

PROTECTION AGAINST DISCRIMINATION, HARRASSMENT AND RETALIATION

Title IX and CSU policy prohibit discrimination, harassment and retaliation, including Sex Discrimination, Sexual Harassment or Sexual Violence. CSUEB encourages anyone experiencing such behavior to report their concerns immediately. CSUEB has both confidential and non-confidential resources and reporting options available to you. Non-confidential resources include faculty and staff, who are required to report all incidents and thus cannot promise confidentiality. Faculty and staff must provide the campus Title IX coordinator and or the DHR Administrator with relevant details such as the names of those involved in an incident. For confidential services, contact the Confidential Advocate at 510-885-3700 or go to the Student Health and Counseling Center. For 24-hour crisis services call the BAWAR hotline at 510-800-4247.
